Title: Alrad sign official distributor agreement with Artray

Alrad is pleased to announce it has signed an agreement to act as an official distributor for Artray.

Based in Japan, Artray is a leading manufacturer of cameras designed specifically for industrial, scientific and thermal imaging applications. Amongst its extensive product range are industrial cameras with either CCD or CMOS sensors and a USB2.0 output, making them easy to set up and integrate into many applications; thermal imaging cameras for a wide variety of infrared monitoring and measurements; HDMI + USB2 dual output cameras allowing connection to a high resolution monitor or a PC.

Ian Alderton, Director, Alrad said "We have been reselling Artray cameras for a number of years now and this agreement cements the relationship between the two companies. It also shows Artray is determined to step up its activities in the British market place, and in co-operation with Alrad will enhance its support to customers in the UK and Irish markets - which will be of benefit to everyone".
